

Make a Pet!

There are many interesting animals in this world, but why not add more? By taking common (or maybe some not so common) zoo animal photographs, we are going to create new creatures that would marvel even the most brilliant zoologist.

Select 2 or more images of animals that you would like to combine. Here are a few hints to aid in your selection. First, try to select images that appear similar in contrast and have similar shadows. Next, the larger the portions of the different animals you are originally using, the better quality your final product will become. Finally, have fun! Feel free to be creative. There are no bad ideas here.
